Web Developer profile

Front-End Developer with 5+ years' experience in sociology and public policy. Through Managing 40+ client caseloads and interacting with many different informational systems I was able to work under pressure producing quality results, while fostering others' alignments behind a vision. I love and have played football competitively for over 15+ years and carry my admiration for team environments into tech. Utilizing my soft skills and attention to detail, I have a passion for bringing ideas to life through smooth, accessible, and responsive web apps.
